Patrick Palace, NCBP President and former WSBA President, told the Board he drafted the pledge in response to growing concerns about threats to judicial independence and the rule of law and to unite bar leaders across the nation in support of democratic governance. Lunch and Learn Events: Immigration Enforcement. The Rule of Law Ambassador Program was an prominent topic throughout the March meeting, with Board and Court leaders emphasizing the need for legal professionals to be present in their communities to uphold the rule of law—as sources of good information, to build relationships, and for civic engagement. Toward that goal, the WSBA is creating an ongoing series of virtual lunch-and-learn events to equip legal professionals to answer questions and be resources about hot topics in the law. The first three events—with free CLE credit available—will focus on federal immigration enforcement, with all-star panels ready to answer your questions about these intersecting laws: Fourth Amendment rights (noon Monday, March 30); First and Second Amendment rights (noon Thursday, April 2); and jurisdictional conflicts/supremacy (noon Tuesday, April 7). Email ambassadors@wsba.org to receive registration information as well as ongoing ambassador opportunities, events, and resources.
