

WSBA Powerful Communities Projects

To deliver on its mission to serve the public and members of the Bar, ensure the integrity of the legal profession, and champion justice, the Washington State Bar Association (WSBA) is seeking organizations to partner on a Powerful Communities Project. These partnerships further the following WSBA purposes expressed in General Rule 12.2(a):

- Promote an effective legal system, accessible to all (GR 12.2(a)(2)).
- Provide services to its members and the public (GR 12.2(a)(3)).

These partnerships fall within the following activities specifically authorized by General Rule 12.2(b):

- Encourage public service by members and support programs providing legal services to those in need (GR 12.2(b)(18)).
- Maintain and foster programs of public information and education about the law and the legal system (GR 12.2(b)(19)).

Background

As a member of the Alliance for Equal Justice, the WSBA is working toward implementing the State Plan for the Coordinated Delivery of Civil Legal Aid to Low-Income People (“State Plan”), which guides the Alliance’s collective efforts to expand access to justice and eliminate barriers that perpetuate poverty and deny justice. Goal Three of the State Plan focuses on ensuring that low income members of underserved and underrepresented communities get legal assistance regardless of geographic and/or demographic circumstances.

By partnering on a Powerful Communities Project, the WSBA intends to support organizations implementing strategies of Goal Three by helping them jumpstart new community-based projects and/or expand existing projects that benefit and provide services to low income people.

Examples of underserved and underrepresented communities for the purposes of Powerful Communities Projects include people who experience poverty and are:

- People with disabilities
- People experiencing homelessness
- Juveniles and young adults (15-21 years old), including people in the child welfare or juvenile justice systems.
- Veterans and military service members

- Incarcerated/formerly incarcerated persons, people in the criminal justice system, and people with criminal records and/or Legal Financial Obligations (LFOs)
- Immigrants of any status
- LGBTQIA+ identifying persons
- Black, Indigenous, and/or Persons of Color (BIPOC)
- People living in rural regions, especially areas with little to no access to local pro bono, free, or other affordable legal services
- Survivors of domestic violence and/or sexual violence

Vision for Success

Our vision of success for the Powerful Communities Projects is that by collaborating with organizations who are working with underserved and underrepresented communities:

- More people who experience poverty and injustice will have equitable access to free or affordable, quality legal services;
- Collaborative partnerships with community-based organizations serving underrepresented communities will be created or deepened; and
- More pro bono opportunities for bar members to serve underserved and underrepresented communities.

Eligibility

We encourage applicants to consider collaborating on (a) joint proposal(s). WSBA Public Service staff can assist interested applicants to connect with each other to explore collaboration. The following entities or organizations are invited to apply:

- Washington State Minority Bar Associations (MBAs);
- Qualified Legal Service Providers (QLSPs); and
- Nonprofit organizations applying in collaboration with nonprofit legal organizations.

Selection Criteria and Priorities

Application materials will be reviewed holistically with priority given to proposals that:

- Advance Goal Three of the State Plan which aims to ensure that low income members of underserved and underrepresented communities get legal assistance regardless of geographic and/or demographic circumstances.
- Involve developing or deepening partnerships with community organizations based in a geographic area(s) that do not have access to locally-based legal services.
- Involve developing or deepening partnerships with community organizations who are led by or work directly with underrepresented or underserved communities.
- Anticipate a sustainable, longer term, and ongoing relationship with an underrepresented or underserved community.

- Create a collaboration between two or more community-based organizations that are serving and centering client communities.
- Help smaller organizations who may not have access to funding sources.

Applicants who previously received funding from Powerful Communities Projects are invited to apply and must identify how a second grant will help build upon the community-developing foundational framework set by the first grant and identify community partners they plan to work with.

Examples of Proposal Ideas

The following list is not exhaustive and serves only as inspiration:

- Convening underrepresented communities and organizations in underserved geographic areas to identify the legal needs of that community in order to organize targeted legal assistance.
- Funding staff or volunteer time to encourage relationship development with community-based organizations to integrate legal information in spaces where community members already access information and resources.
- Trainings for community-based organizations and agencies on how to issue spot legal matters and make appropriate legal referrals.
- Development of technology which increases and expands the reach of pro bono legal assistance.
- Legal advice clinics where volunteers provide legal information, advice and/or limited or extensive services such as legal research, forms preparation, drafting correspondence, brief communication with opposing party, etc.
- “Know Your Rights” workshops and similar legal information sessions.
- Financial support for ongoing work that enables organizations to expand or improve legal information or assistance services.

Examples of Projects Previously Awarded

The following list is intended to serve as inspiration:

- QLaw Foundation used funds to host a facilitated legal convening intended to hold space for LGBTQ+ community groups, community members, and legal organizations to engage in deeper conversations and engage in relationship building.
- The Northwest Justice Project used funds to support a convening and training for Skokomish tribal members in Mason County. The event include “know your rights” trainings and a listening session to hear directly from the tribal community about their community needs and priorities.
- Thurston County Volunteer Legal Services used their funds to purchase new technology to support a new legal advice clinic in Pacific County. The technology allowed pro bono volunteers to serve clients in an area without an existing Volunteer Lawyer Program.
