

Isaac C. Prevost

April 20, 2025

Hello,

I am applying to be an At-Large Member of the Washington State Bar Association Litigation Section Executive Committee because I want to help expand opportunities and foster a community for litigators across the state.

My experience and commitment to this practice would enable me to effectively serve on this committee. First, I bring an enthusiasm for litigation. My practice focuses primarily on civil appeals. This ranges from drafting briefs to serving as embedded appellate counsel, assisting and advising trial teams in the courtroom. I have also served as lead attorney in multiple administrative hearings, handling every element from preparing witnesses to challenging adverse determinations. This commitment to the litigation practice will be a great benefit as I work with this committee to figure out how to best serve litigators in Washington.

Second, I have the experience to bring in members and coordinate events. At my firm, I assist with hiring our summer associates and serve as a mentor for the duration of their time with the firm. In this role, I coordinate social events and educational opportunities for the summer associates. I also serve on the WSBA's Administrative Law Executive Committee, where I assist with membership recruitment and participated in the mentor/mentee program. This gives me insight into how to recruit and retain section members.

Third, I will be able to substantively contribute to this committee's legislative work. Prior to law school, I worked as a Legislative Assistant in the Washington State House of Representatives. I helped with the formulation and ultimate passage of bills, including the creation of a low-interest loan program for underground fuel storage tank replacements and the expansion of the statewide Prescription Drug Monitoring Program. I further honed this legislative knowledge by working on a white paper analyzing regulations of autonomous vehicle testing for the Washington State Transportation Commission during law school. This nuanced understanding of the interplay between law and policy will be a helpful perspective on the committee.

I would value the opportunity to bring this experience and dedication to the Executive Committee. I want to use this opportunity to give back to the community by engaging litigators across the state and helping provide an informative and inclusive environment.

Thank you,

Isaac C. Prevost